

Georgia Gerontology Society Student Scholarships 2023 Information & Application

The purpose of the GGS Scholarship Awards is to offer financial support to persons committed to embarking upon, or seeking to advance, a career in aging. The fund provides scholarships for study in gerontology in order to promote leadership development in the field of aging. Leaders with a broad knowledge base, strong organizational skills, and a vision for the future are needed to advance the field.

Note: In previous years, students have applied for funds to be used for research. While GGS recognizes the importance of this work, scholarship funds are sent directly to the student's institution and can only be applied to tuition and fees.

Eligibility Requirements

Eligibility for the Robert P. Wray $2000 Undergraduate Scholarship: the student must have completed a minimum of one academic term (semester or quarter) and fulfill at least one of the following, (a) have a minimum of one fall academic term remaining or (b) hold a letter of admission to a graduate program to begin no later than the next fall term.

Eligibility for the Virginia M. Smyth $3000 Graduate Scholarship: the student must have completed a minimum of one academic term (semester or quarter) in a graduate program and must have a minimum of one fall academic term remaining in a graduate program.

Additional Requirements for Both Scholarships

All candidates must:

- 1.) Be a GGS member*
- 2.) Be enrolled in either an undergraduate or graduate program in gerontology or another field with a focus on aging at a Georgia college or university
- 3.) Demonstrate leadership potential and a commitment to older persons
- 4.) Have achieved a strong academic record.

* If applying for a GGS membership would create a financial burden, please describe this in your statement of financial need.

 Colleges and Universities with a Georgia campus are also eligible.

Not a member of GGS? You can visit <http://www.georgiagerontologysociety.org/members.htm> to read about the benefits and apply for student membership. Financial need will be a consideration, but not a sole determinant. If you have won a GGS application previously, you are eligible to apply in a different category but cannot win the same scholarship more than once.
